

Resisting Reds In Korea Helps World Peace Says Churchill

NEW YORK (AP)—Winston Churchill said today that resisting communism in Korea has "done more to improve the chances of world peace than anything else."

The British Prime Minister, arriving here for talks with President-elect Eisenhower, said the danger of World War III "has receded during the last year."

He told a news conference aboard the Queen Mary that the Korean War means "that Soviet aggression has been resolutely and fully confronted."

"That has been the greatest event of the past five years," he said.

Opposes War Extension
The 76-year-old British leader said his country was against any "definite extension" of the Korean War.

He expressed distress with American trade tariffs, and said the United States had failed to fully share its atomic information with Great Britain.

Churchill declined to indicate what subjects his talks with Eisenhower will cover. The meeting has been labeled an "informal" one, but British government spokesmen have said it may touch on a wide range of international questions.

Churchill told the newsmen that prospects for peace this year "certainly are not less encouraging than they were in 1952."

To a newsmen who wanted to know whether the danger of world war had subsided, the Prime Minister said, "We must go on and hold our position—this doesn't mean there will be no improvement in the situation."

Checkmate Tops Stalemate
"I think it would be a great pity for the United Nations armies—or the United States armies—to go wandering about all over this vast China—or to make any definite extension of the war."

He said there are "worse things than a stalemate," such as that which prevails in Korea. "There's a checkmate," he said.

Churchill said Korea has brought "consolidation of the chances for world peace" by uniting the free nations against aggression and by sparking a Western military build-up.

But he said Korea must not divert the free nations from the real center of gravity, which he said he believed is "along the frontiers of the Iron Curtain in Europe."

Churchill said he had not heard the details of a reported plan by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for ending the Korean War. MacArthur announced in a speech last month that a "clear and definite solution" to the conflict existed. The general later conferred with Eisenhower.

Asked about economic relations between Great Britain and the United States, Churchill said:

"Earn Our Own Living"
"Our views are very simple. We don't want to live on you. We want to earn our own living... but if you shut the door and won't take anything that we want to make, it is hard to see how the unsatisfactory situation can be avoided or how we can find our real strength. That's what we mean by trade, not aid."

His remarks referred to United States tariffs which make the import of some British products unfeasible.

More than 200 reporters and photographers crowded into the Queen Mary's verandah grill for the news conference. Churchill sat at a table in front of a mural showing a nymph reclining on white clouds surrounded by winged cherubs.

Flanking Churchill were financier Bernard Baruch, at whose home the Prime Minister will be a guest while in New York, and Sir Roger Makin, the new British ambassador to the United States, who accompanied Churchill from England.

F. E. GRIEST ON STAND AS FTC PROBE RESUMES

The federal government continued here today the hearing it began in November at Washington into the operations of the apple industry. The government claims that a number of processors including the Knouse Foods and C. H. Musselman Co., of Adams County, and the grower members of Appalachian Apple entered into agreements which restrained trade in 1950.

Federal Trade Commission Hearing Examiner Frank Hler opened the hearing at the post office here this morning at 10 o'clock, the opening part of the session was continuing, without a recess for lunch, at 1 o'clock.

Flora Dale Fruit Grower Frederic E. Griest and a Shippensburg grower, Richard C. McDonald, were the two witnesses brought before the examiner this morning and early afternoon.

F. E. Griest Testifies
Much of the questioning by Government Attorney Leslie Miller of Washington concerned what happened at meetings of the Appalachian Apple Institute in August, 1950, and meetings of a grower committee with a processing committee later that month and again in October, 1950. Griest and McDonald were members of the board of directors of Appalachian Apple and were members of the growers' committee meeting with the processors.

While much questioning was on efforts of the growers to seek a $3.50 a hundred price for top grade apples sold to processors during 1950, the questioning ranged into related subjects concerning the fruit industry, including a question asked of Griest as to why he stayed in a business in which he has consistently lost money for the last five years.

Griest testified that the apple production from the 700 acres he owns or manages had resulted in profits during the war years and had been "operating in the red" since 1947.

War Postponed Planting
Griest answered that he continued in a business losing money "because I have a bear by the tail. This is a business I have been in all my life. You have to understand that an orchard's productive life is not the same as that of a man. About 1942 I should have replaced older orchards, but there was the need for food during the war and they could be operated profitably during that time, so they continued on. After the war I started new orchards (Continued on Page 2)

82ND AIRBORNE
UNITS TO PASS THROUGH TOWN
More than 4,000 members of the famed 82nd Airborne Division will go through Gettysburg about noon Tuesday enroute from Fort Bragg, N. C., to Camp Drum, New York, for Exercise Snow Storm.

To lessen the interruption of the normal flow of traffic, the division vehicles will be broken down into four march columns. Each column will consist of approximately 500 vehicles carrying about 4,000 paratroopers. If all the vehicles were in one column at normal intervals, the line would be about 180 miles long and would take seven hours to pass a given point.

All of the division will travel to Camp Drum over the same route. The first unit will go through here about noon Tuesday and the next unit on the following day. The two others will be here on January 15 and 21. The final unit will take part in the inaugural parade in Washington on January 20 before heading north.

Commander In First Unit
Major General Gerald J. Higgins, one of the youngest generals in the Army today and present commander of the 82nd, will be with the initial unit going through here Tuesday.

Exercise Snow Storm will be the sixth full scale maneuver, for the 82nd, the most decorated American Division during World War II, since their return from Europe in January of 1946. Units of the division, however, have fought mock wars throughout the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Labrador.

During the exercise, which will feature numerous parachute jumps, the latest developments in cold weather clothing, equipment and tactics will be tested.

Last spring the 82nd made a 1-500 mile move to Fort Hood, Texas, where they participated in Exercise Long Horn. During this mock war they acted as "Aggressor" for the first time in any maneuver. During Snow Storm they will act as friendly forces.

STAG PARTY TUESDAY
The regular monthly stag party will be held at the Gettysburg Country Club Tuesday night, following a meeting of the Board of Directors. A cold buffet supper will be served. George Boettner Jr. is in charge of the refreshments. The affair will be held in the clubhouse.

Hides From Cops; But Auto Moves Away

Arthur Beamer, of Gettysburg and Hanover, was taken into custody by borough police Saturday evening about 8 o'clock in a parking lot at the rear of the Adams House, Chambersburg St., when a car drove out of the lot and disclosed Beamer stretched prone on the ground. He had been hiding under the auto.

Police had been called to the Adams House because of a disturbance and Beamer fled out the back door when the police entered the front. They were unable to locate him but a few minutes later as they drove in the alley with the police car, Beamer's "cover" drove away and they made the arrest.

Beamer was taken to the Adams County Jail and on Sunday was released when he posted bond for a hearing today at 4:30 p.m. before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore on a charge of disorderly conduct filed by borough officers.

He detailed his Communist connections in a copyrighted interview published in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly news magazine. Weyl said of the 1933 Communist unit in government:

"Strict Secrecy"
"It was a unit consisting entirely of men who were expected to have promising careers in the government, organized completely independently of the rest of the Washington Communists, and set up on a basis of the strictest secrecy."

While there was nothing illegal about government officials being Communists, Weyl said members of the group "all knew they were part of a revolutionary organization."

"They were there," he added, "because they believed in revolution. They thought the capitalist system was dying and would have to change over to a socialist form of organization."

Weyl said he would guess roughly that Hiss attended between 35 and 40 meetings of the unit. Hiss is the former State Department official now serving a prison term for his conviction of lying when he denied giving secrets to a Red spy ring courier.

Hiss Was Member
Asked whether Hiss was a member of the Communist party, or just an underground member at large, Weyl replied:

"He was a member of the party. Everyone who attended unit meetings was. No outsider or fellow traveler was ever admitted."

Weyl, who has told his story to a congressional committee, was asked in the present interview:

"Do you feel there are many people, possibly some liberals, in this country who still feel that Hiss is innocent?"

"I think today very few," Weyl replied. "I think however that the conclusion they finally and reluctantly reached about Hiss's guilt isn't going to prevent them from defending the next person who falls into the same situation. I am not referring to ordinary Communists or spies but to those Communists who have the gift of appearing to the general public as champions of liberalism."

Prayer Week Services Open Sunday Night
The annual Union Week of Prayer services opened Sunday evening in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church with the Rev. Victor K. Meredith Jr., local Methodist pastor, delivering the sermon. The church was well-filled for the service which was conducted by the host pastor, Dr. Howard S. Fox.

This evening's service will be in the Baptist Church on S. Stratton St. with the Rev. J. O. Fountain, pastor of the local A.M.E. Church, delivering the sermon and the host pastor, the Rev. Herbert Brownlee, conducting the service. On Tuesday evening the service will be in St. James Lutheran Church and Chaplain E. E. Korte of Gettysburg College will preach.

Fairfield Fire Report Is Given
The Fairfield Community Fire Co. responded to 18 calls during 1952, according to Fire Chief Roger Myers, but only one of the fires was in the borough. Of the 18 calls, 16 were in the territory served by the fire company and two were "assistants" to other fire companies, he said.

The loss in the 16 fires was estimated at $5,500 to real estate and $2,600 to personal property. One of the "assistants" was to Emmitsburg firemen, when the Mort dairy barn burned with a loss estimated at $18,000. Another was to Pottsville firemen in helping fight a forest fire.

Mark was struck by a truck near his home last Friday while trying out the shiny new bike and died several hours later in a Baton Rouge hospital.

Besides his parents, Mark is survived by his twin brother, Lee, and his grandmother, Mrs. Pearl K. Sneeringer, Buchanan Valley. Mark's mother was the former Miss Josephine Sneeringer.

The Mass of the Angels was sung in the child's parish church at Baton Rouge this morning. Interment was made in that city.

Confessed Red Says Hiss And Other Government Officials Were Commies 20 Years Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nathaniel Weyl, a confessed former Communist, said today Alger Hiss was a member of the Communist party in 1933 in a unit composed of various government officials.

Weyl said he himself was a member of the unit and that it included a number of government officials in the early depression years.

Weyl, who said he was a Communist member for five years, has been a government economist in the past. He served overseas with the American Army during World War II, and since leaving the Communist party he has held several government posts.

He detailed his Communist connections in a copyrighted interview published in U. S. News and World Report, a weekly news magazine. Weyl said of the 1933 Communist unit in government:

SAYS HIGHWAYS IN STATE ARE "INADEQUATE"

"It's not the motor truck that's wrong, it's the inadequacy of our highways," Thomas F. Robertson, director of community relations of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, told 70 employees of H. Earl Pitzer, Aspers trucking firm, their wives and guests Saturday night at a dinner given by Mr. Pitzer at Fidler's Restaurant, Biglerville.

"Pennsylvania is suffering from inadequate highways," Mr. Robertson asserted. "We have nearly 3,000,000 motor vehicles competing for space on our roads. Many persons blame the trucks for highway congestion. The motor truck is a necessary tool in our economy."

Mr. Robertson contended that "the railroads for years have built a barrier around Pennsylvania." He said that "in this state the tandem axle load limit is 45,000 pounds, while in most other states it is 60,000 pounds."

Truckers Don't Suffer
"This," he said, "becomes an impediment to the free movement of goods. This is true of the canners in Adams County and the manufacturers in the entire state. It is not the truckers who suffer, but the manufacturers and agriculture."

Mr. Robertson criticized an official of the State Association of Township Supervisors for what he claimed were anti-truck resolutions adopted by many county associations.

"This official bulldozes through these county meetings these anti-truck resolutions. These township supervisors are elected by you. The proper job of township officials is not to hinder or hamper any group, but to serve their counties with better roads. Through the machinations of this quasi state official, resolutions have been adopted detrimental to the trucking industry."

TAFT TO FACE NEW TASK AS FLOOR LEADER

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—When he was just another Republican senator, Sen. Taft had a luxury he can't take advantage of in his new position of power and responsibility as Republican floor leader.

Taft is a hard-working man. He's also a sensitive one. In other years he could make a pronouncement and march off the floor without having to defend it or argue about it, if he didn't want to.

And like any other senator in his position in the past, he always had the privilege of walking out if someone on the other side set out to pin his ears back and he didn't like the quality of the pins.

Floor Leader Must Stick
Not so for the floor leader. He has to stick around even when the other side is trying to cave his roof in with brick-bats. He has the responsibility of guiding through to final passage the legislation his administration wants.

Vice President Barkley, when he was a senator from Kentucky, and the late Sen. Wherry of Nebraska didn't seem to have much in common but both had a sense of humor which served them in good stead. Day after day, year after year, Barkley as floor leader of the Democrats and Wherry, in the same job for the Republicans, had to withstand some rough assaults.

Anecdotes Helped
When the going got to unpleasant, Barkley could be pretty rugged himself, although some of his best weapons were the endless supply of Kentucky anecdotes he could sprinkle around to put out a fire.

Wherry had a great capacity for turning on indignation but he didn't get the name of "Merry Wherry" for nothing. But Sen. Taft is not noted for his humor.

He's not the kind of man you'd refer to as "one of the boys." He takes himself seriously. And no matter whether you agree with the decisions he reaches after making up his mind, he puts great effort into making it up.

Going To Be Interesting
If some other senators put half as much energy into their jobs, the Senate would no doubt be more informed and less drafty.

But it will be interesting to see how the serious-minded Taft handles himself if the Democrats begin needling him in the hope he can't take it and will make a move or statement they can turn against him.

F. E. GRIEST ON

but you have to wait ten years until new orchards begin to come in. Right now I am in that interval between the time when the old orchards were out and the new ones have not come in. In addition, in fruit there is not only the question of production based on the age of the trees, but other factors of weather and the like, which helped keep things in the 'red' during that period."

"No Agreements"
Griest testified that there had never, to his knowledge, been any agreements entered into by anybody, growers or processors that would not have kept him from selling as an individual to anybody as the best price he could get.

The hearing was interrupted by frequent objections from attorneys on both sides. At one point defense attorneys claimed that Attorney Miller was "testifying for the witness" in his questions. At another point Miller objected to an objection raised by Attorney Franklin Bigham, arguing that Bigham was making "a leading objection to tell the witness what to say." Miller's objection came before Bigham had had an opportunity to say more than a few words.

McDonald said he had led a fight to put a law through the State Legislature of Pennsylvania to place a tax on all apples sold, but added "it was voted down I'm sorry to say."

McDonald said the grower committee had met with the processor committee in Hagerstown in August, 1950, "to try to convince them we had to have a $3.50 per hundred price for our apples."

Knouse, Hauser To Testify
He said that after a discussion on the fruit pack holdover, the quantity of competitive fruits and other details of the economic situation, he was convinced that "We were pushing too hard for $3.50, that maybe $3.25 would be a better price." He added: "We got nothing absolutely definite out of the meeting."

There were frequent statements by McDonald quoting that what "Mr. Knouse," M. E. Knouse, president of Knouse foods, and "Mr. Hauser," John A. Hauser, president of C. H. Musselman Co., said at the various meetings. Both are scheduled to testify later.

The second meeting of the processors and growers' committees in joint session was held at the request of Wilkie Hunt, president of National Food Product of Winchester, Va., both Griest and McDonald were agreed.

Both also agreed that Hunt called the session because he was receiving more fruit from growers than he could process and that he hoped the committee members would be able to suggest some solution for the problem. Griest said, "Mr. Hunt wasn't responsible for what happened to the fruit but I think he called the meeting as a responsible citizen on behalf of the growers."

Rosenbergs To Die

11 P.M. January 14
NEW YORK (AP)—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the convicted husband and wife atom spy team, are scheduled to go to the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison on Jan. 14 at 11 p.m., their attorneys says.

However, their execution may be delayed by further appeals. Their attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, said yesterday that U. S. Marshal William A. Carroll fixed the precise day and hour of the scheduled execution. Previously their trip to the death chair had been set for the week of Jan. 11 by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who presided at the trial.

Bloch said he was given the information Saturday when he took the Rosenbergs' sons, Michael 9, and Robert, 5, to the prison for a visit with their parents.

comment on whether he thought a personal meeting of himself with Soviet Premier Stalin would contribute anything to easing world tensions.

Dodges Stalin Meeting
"I thought you would ask me something about that," he said. "I really have nothing to say. If I had, I know you would feel that this is not the right place to say it."

Stalin said recently in a statement to the New York Times that he was agreeable to a meeting with Eisenhower, and British spokesmen have indicated the possibility of such a meeting would be discussed by Eisenhower and Churchill.

Questioned about British atomic developments, Churchill remarked that the United States had not stuck to the promise made by the late President Roosevelt to exchange information with Britain the "fullest information" about the atomic bomb.

"We want to be a useful partner," Churchill said. "We don't want to ask anything that would not be of common benefit."

Churchill had high praise for President Truman, who he said has "headed a memorable period in American history."

"He has taken great and valiant decisions, which have made us all feel better," Churchill said.

Vacation In Jamaica

Churchill, after a stay of a few days in New York, will go to Washington to pay his respects to President Truman, then will go on to Jamaica for a two-weeks vacation.

He said he had not been invited to address a joint session of Congress, as had been reported in Washington, and had no plans to do so.

Asked if he planned to invite Truman to visit England, Churchill said it would not be up to him to extend such an invitation, but he added:

"It is needless to say how honored and delighted we would be if your great President chooses to pay us a visit after he lays aside his duties of office."

Churchill said there was "nothing extraordinary" in his meeting—probably tomorrow—with Eisenhower. He said he had met Eisenhower perhaps 100 times during World War II.

"And even though this may be our 101st meeting," he said, "it doesn't follow that anything should go wrong any more than at any of the previous meetings."

looking at the tree and I almost cried to see their little scabby, bald heads dancing around. We are giving them oranges, nuts and candy. I can't go because I am duty plumper tonight. The other guys left so I am holding down the hut.

"If only you at home had any idea of the poverty and destitution in the Far East, you would know how much Christmas really means. Our kids at home, even the poorest, get much too much in comparison to these poor littleurchins here. I can find no words in my heart to express the pity it holds for poor little children everywhere, whether they be yellow, black, red or white.

"I have found a real meaning of Christmas and I will never forget it as long as I live, I wish every American could see these little children with their little black eyes gazing at our brightly lighted tree. Please pray for them, many are crippled and need us. If the more fortunate of us could just realize our good fortune as we lie in our beds and sit down to our turkey laden dinner tables tomorrow, then see these destitute people, maybe our morals and objectives would be little better than they are at the present time.

"My resolution is that, instead of spending any money for my own pleasure, I am going to take a small boy and give him a new suit and a good meal. Maybe in that way my life will be richer and I will have made this old world a better place in which to live. I, on this Christmas Eve, 1952, ask God Almighty to watch over and protect all innocent children, regardless of religion, race or creed. God bless you all."

GHS At Carlisle Tuesday For SP Start; Adams County Loop To Open; Bullets Face Bisons

A new high in winter sports program will be reached this week with all schools listed for one or more games while two scholastic schoolboy leagues swing into action Tuesday night.

Gettysburg High, unbeaten in five tune-up games, opens its South Penn League season at Carlisle. The Warriors have been ranked as one of the top notch contenders for league honors this year while Carlisle has been rated a "dark horse." Coach Gene Evans is confident his Herd will provide plenty of trouble in the league which presages a tough evening for the Warriors. Following Tuesday's game the Warriors return here Friday night for their initial league game with Shippensburg.

Other South Penn games carded for Tuesday include Chambersburg at Shippensburg, Mechanicsburg at Waynesboro, and Hershey at Hanover. Hanover's Nighthawks are the defending champions.

Tuesday night will also serve as the opening of the Adams County Scholastic Boys League.

County Games
East Berlin, winners of the loop title last year, has only a 39-32 decision over the Alumni while losing five other games. The Indians play at Newville in their opener.

The remainder of the county schedule finds Littlestown at Biglerville, York Springs at New Oxford, and Fairfield at Bolling Springs.

The girls' circuit waits until Friday for its opening games which will be preliminaries to the boys' games. Friday's card is New Oxford at Littlestown, Newville at Biglerville, Bolling Springs at York Springs, and Fairfield at East Berlin.

Rogers Herr's Gettysburg Junior High outfit opens its 12-game program here Tuesday evening with Carlisle. The preliminary game will start at 6:45 o'clock.

Gettysburg College has two basketball engagements this week. Bucknell will be met at Lewisburg Wednesday evening, the game being broadcast by WGET. On Saturday the Bullets, undefeated in five starts, will meet the strong Johns Hopkins cases here.

Jack Shainline's college wrestlers open their season on Saturday by engaging Haverford in the latter's gym.

Delone Catholic High of McSherrystown has a pair of games slated during the week, meeting Lancaster Catholic Wednesday at Lancaster and playing Mt. Carmel Catholic on Friday.

Community Action
Tonight the Community Cage League inaugurates its season on the local high school floor with the Glenn L. Bream Garage opposing the Stanton Legion at 7 o'clock and the Eagles and Texas Lunch clashing in the second game.

Mt. St. Mary's College resumes with two games this week on foreign courts, playing at Shippensburg Wednesday evening and at Western Maryland Saturday evening.

Gettysburg High's gym will be the scene of an independent game Thursday evening when the All-American Red Heads, termed the world's finest girls team, meet the Hanover Moose.

SUBWAYS, CABS ARE STRAINED BY BUS STRIKE

NEW YORK (AP)—The first full impact of a five-day-old strike tying up 3,500 privately-owned buses hit New York City today. It threw a heavy load on subways and city-owned bus lines during the morning rush hour but they absorbed it without great difficulty.

It was a case of "standing room only" on lines that were operating, but standing was nothing new to New York's commuters. There were just more standees than usual.

The strike against the city's eight privately operated bus lines for a 40-hour week and wage improvements began on the stroke of New Year's. Because of the long holiday week end, its full force was not felt until today.

A staggering of school hours helped lessen the rush-hour burden. High schools, except those on Staten Island, did not begin classes until 10 a. m. Junior high school pupils who ordinarily ride subways were permitted to be late to classes.

Taxis did a booming business, particularly to and from subway stations.

The struck lines carry an average of 3½ million passengers a day, but this did not mean that an additional load of this scale was thrown on the subways. Most passengers normally used the subways, anyhow, riding the buses simply to reach the nearest subway station.

Many reached the subways today by hailing cabs or joining in car pools.

A mediation session was scheduled at City Hall today in another effort to try to find a solution to the transit dispute.

Local Cagers Play Prelim On Thursday

Arrangements have been made to have the Texas Lunch Basketball team meet the Hanover Moose reserves in the preliminary game Thursday evening at 7 o'clock prior to the All American Red Heads-Hanover Moose tilt on the Gettysburg High School floor.

Admission to the twin bill will be $1. If tickets are secured in advance at the Texas Lunch, Chambersburg St., purchasers will be assured seats in a reserved section.

START TUSSLE WITH COLLEGE SPORT ISSUES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The executive committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) settles down today to pick its tournament dates, thereby starting a week long tussle with the nation's college sports problems.

By the time the wordy week is finished, the NCAA will have decided such questions as:

1. Should strict curbs be kept on televising football games? Or should all controls be dropped, as suggested by Notre Dame and Pennsylvania?

2. Should football bowl games be banned? Or are they really a part of the college picture which should be continued?

3. Should the NCAA constitution be tightened so that those who violate NCAA rules can be punished quickly and effectively?

The best guess on what the answers will be: No major changes. Today's program was routine.

Schedule For Session
Here is the schedule:

Executive committee to pick sites and dates for all its 11 tournaments (everything from gymnastics to fencing). One exception: Basketball, which was announced previously.

The directors of football's Hall of Fame to discuss ways to build up their organization. It's located at Rutgers, site of the first inter-collegiate football game.

Members of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches to have a get-together tonight.

Wants Uncontrolled TV
Things will perk up tomorrow when the NCAA television committee holds the first of two day-long meetings. But the NCAA itself does not meet until Thursday and the first vote isn't scheduled until Friday.

Last season the NCAA clamped a tight control on televising football, limiting television to one game a week. The television committee already has reported it thinks this procedure "satisfactory" so it appears likely a somewhat similar program will be suggested for next season.

Pennsylvania has a resolution, though, calling for uncontrolled television. It's backed by Notre Dame.

Syracuse Tumbles In Hockey League

By The Associated Press

The tight American Hockey League race remained unchanged at the top today, but Syracuse, which had been a challenging spot, tumbled all the way to next-to-last place by losing one game.

Before hostilities got underway last night Syracuse was in fourth place with 30 points. But the Providence Reds whipped the Warriors 6-3. This, combined with a 4-3 St. Louis victory over Hershey, dropped the Warriors to sixth place. Buffalo defeated Pittsburgh, 1-0, in the other game.

St. Louis took over fourth with 32 points and Providence moved into fifth with 31.

The Flyers' victory over Hershey was their fourth triumph in five games, and it prevented the losers from taking over sole possession of first place from the idle Cleveland Barons.

Report 391 Deaths To Open New Year

By The Associated Press

American motorists wrote a bloody record of death on highway and street in two successive week-ends of the Christmas-New Year holidays.

As the number of persons killed in traffic accidents in the past four days mounted to 391, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, declared, "This is a disgraceful way to start the new year."

The previous record for a four-day New Year week end (6 p. m. Wednesday, until midnight Sunday local time), was 375 fatalities, set only last year.

Lake Superior navigation is closed by ice about four months a year.

Waynesboro Has Five Veterans On Basketball Squad But Lacks Polish, Depth For League Race

(This is the eighth and final in a series of articles written by members of the Southern Pennsylvania Sportswriters Association on prospects of schools in the South Penn Basketball League.)

By Wilbur Davis

Velocity of the Waynesboro-Mont Alto High School's 1953 South Penn court entry is still unmeasurable.

A lot remains to be done before the Blue and Gold Tornado can be figured as a contender in the eight-team race.

The Tornado men open their home conference season in Waynesboro Tuesday night battling Don Seibert's Mechanicsburg High School Wildcats.

The Tornado has average height, plenty of scrap but lacks coordination, finesse, firepower, polish and depth.

Just who will be on the varsity squad when the conference curtain goes up is an uncertainty. Head Coach Jim Martz, who succeeded Cal Welliver, is looking for a workable combination.

Has 6-7 Center
Tom Cross, 6'7" Negro from Hagerstown, became eligible last Friday night and made his debut against the Alumni. Just how well Cross will work against the fast South Penn Conference clubs remains to be seen.

Cross may be the answer. Against the Alumni the towering Junior was obviously shaken by stage fright. It was his first scholastic appearance. However he handled the majority of the rebounds and dunked the most points, 11. He can prove a valuable defensive man and a good scoring possibility providing Coach Jim Martz can get a good passing combination with Cross the under-basket-target.

List Holdovers
Martz has five varsity holdovers from last season. This number includes Paul Carso, 6', who was twice named end on the All South Penn Conference football squad; Dick Sanders, 5'10½"; Charlie Washington, 5'5"; and Lynn Snyder, 6'3" who played with both the jayvees and the varsity last season.

Up from the jayvees are Bill Wallace 6'3"; Jim Wolf 5'8½"; Larry Provand 5'6"; Ronnie Kauffman 5'9" and Don Shade 5'11".

Back with the squad again this season is Dave Stottmeyer 6'1" who was sidelined last season with a knee injury.

Waynesboro goes into Tuesday night's contest with a 0-4 record losing 43-33 to Scotland, 54-37 to Steelton, 59-25 to York and last Friday night bowing to the Alumni 45-26.

BIG TEN FAVOR ROSE BOWL PACT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference apparently will continue to play football in the Rose Bowl—unless all post season football games are abandoned.

That was reported following a closed meeting between university presidents and representatives of the two conferences yesterday. All members of both conferences were represented except Wisconsin.

An unofficial spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said it appeared to him a majority of the Big Ten representatives favor signing a new Rose Bowl pact to succeed the one which expires after the next New Year's day game.

He said Big Ten representatives opened discussion on the Pasadena game, asking if arrangements have been made to extend the pact another three years.

The PCC already has voted to invite the Big Ten to sign a new agreement.

Deadline for renewal is June 5, but the Big Ten is expected to give its formal answer after the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention opening in Washington Tuesday.

FANS, COACHES MAKE PROTESTS ON CAGE RULES

By SYD KRONISH

NEW YORK (AP)—One and one equals two. That's a simple mathematical equation. But it doesn't apply to basketball. In this sport, one and one equals one. And some folks don't like the idea.

Sounds confusing—but no more confusing than the game of collegiate basketball has become today as a result of some new foul regulations put into effect this season. The new rules have caused more comment than a Marilyn Monroe calendar.

In the first 37 minutes of a contest, a player who is fouled gets a "one and one" shot. That is, he shoots his free throw from the line as in the past. If he makes the shot, the game continues. If the "foulee" misses, however, he gets another chance.

In the last three minutes all fouls are two shots, whether the player is in the act of shooting or not. No throws can be waived.

Spectators Grumble
Many spectators have grumbled that the new rules are really "foul." Because of the extra shots the games are longer and less interesting to watch.

Of the coaches who have complained about this new set-up, perhaps Everett Case of North Carolina State is the most outspoken.

"The new rule violates the spirit of the game," asserts Case. "The players become careless when they step up to the foul line. They know they'll get another chance if they miss. The rule also awards a premium to the poor shooter and penalizes the boy who is a good shot and who takes pride in his shooting."

Case also is definitely against the automatic two-shot rule in the final three minutes. Says the mentor:

"A trailing team no longer has a chance to catch up. If they (the losing team) press the opposition in an effort to get the ball and thereby commits a foul, a two-shooter is the result. This does not prevent fouling at all. It merely hampers a team from coming back to win a game."

"We lost a close one early this season to Wake Forest because of this rule. We couldn't catch up when we were behind by one point—and we lost by that one point."

Coaches Polled
Coach Case hoped to do something about this regulation, at least in his own Southern Conference. As president of the Southern Conference Basketball Coaches Association, he is going to poll the 16 other coaches in the loop to find out how they feel about it. Maybe they can adopt some new regulations—for their own intra-conference games. He does favor a modification of the "one and one." This rule might be used only in the last three minutes.

Case is recognized as one of the top cage mentors in the country. For 23 years he coached high school teams in Indiana where kids are known to play basketball while still in their cribs. His successes became nationwide.

He came to N. C. State for the '46-47 season and immediately produced a conference champion. His teams have won the title every year since that time.

If Case has his way, maybe one and one will equal two again.

LEAD COLLEGE CAGERS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Lock Haven is leading the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Basketball Conference with 110 points on the strength of two straight triumphs.

Rounding out the top three are Kutztown, 100 points, 1-0, and Millersville, 77, 2-1. Conference play resumes Wednesday with Chester at Stroudsburg.

MIDDLEWEIGHTS GET SPOTLIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweights come into the boxing spotlight this week with two of the week's big television bouts featuring the 160-pounders.

A rookie flash and an experienced veteran meet in one middleweight feature tonight, and two high-ranking contenders go in the other one Friday night.

The young flash is Marvin Edelman of Philadelphia, who meets Charley (Red) Williams, the New York veteran, in a 10-rounder at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway which will be televised in some sections of the country.

Edelman, 22, has won 28 fights in a row, and is being boomed as one of the best out of the Quaker City since Lew Tendler. Williams, though not much older than Edelman, has had 100 fights and won 75 of them, including seven out of eight in 1952.

Even the nation's No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, Kansas State, has been beaten, Michigan State turning the trick a couple of weeks back. But the Wildcats don't figure to have any trouble this week. They play only one game and that's against a so-so Marquette outfit.

Seton Hall is certain to press state for the No. 1 spot only on the basis of its undefeated record but also because it is the first major team in the country to score more than 1,000 points. Its 13 victories also head the list. Southern Cal has 10, Fordham 9, Wichita 7, Navy 6 and Georgetown 5.

fire in the mountains.

Call answered by Fairfield included three chimney fires, four grass fires, two mountain fires, two washhouses, one dwelling, one automobile, one truck, one dairy barn, one public dump.

There were eight fires in Hamilton Township, six in Liberty, three in Highland and one in Fairfield borough. Apparatus traveled 160 miles during the year on fire calls. Chief Myers was in charge at 17 of the 18 fires, and the new chief, Harper Hiner, in charge at one.

Myers credited the prompt response of the firemen and their efficient work with keeping fire losses low during the year.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Found Dead: At an early hour on Monday morning the dead body of Christopher Wolf, who was well known in our community as an inoffensive, harmless citizen, of some 90 years of age, but addicted to drinking habits, was found near the poorhouse. An inquest held over the body by Justice Buehler, in the absence of the coroner, rendered a verdict of "Death from intemperance and exposure." The night had been a very inclement one, and it was in evidence that the deceased left town about dark for the poorhouse, so much intoxicated as to be scarcely able to make his way. . . . He seems to have lost his hat midway between town and the poorhouse, and had succeeded in reaching about 200 yards of the latter, when probably becoming exhausted, he sank down in the road and perished from exposure. RUM, of course, was the primary cause of his death. From whom did he get it? A terrible responsibility attaches to the answer to this inquiry. . . . STAR Found Drowned: On Friday evening the dead body of a man was found in the Conewago, near Lower's Mill, on the Carlisle Road, which had evidently not been long in the water. It is supposed he fell off the log when crossing the creek and was drowned. He was apparently about 70 years of age, was comfortably clad, and had a pocketbook with a small amount of money, but no papers about him, by which he could be identified.

Married: On Wednesday last, by the Rev. P. Anstader, the Rev. G. Roth, to Miss Charlotte, daughter of Capt. Thomas McKnight, deceased—both of Franklin township.
On the same day, by the Rev. G. Roth, Mr. Clinton Harrison McKnight, of Franklin Township, to Miss Ann Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Wm. McKelroy, of Fayetteville, Franklin County, Pa.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
St. John's Night: Good Samaritan Lodge No. 336, A.Y.M., had a very pleasant social Reunion last Thursday evening, St. John's Night, in their hall on Carlisle St. A fine oyster supper was prepared by Mr. John Gruel to which about 40 members of the lodge sat down. After supper several brief speeches were made.

Orchestra: At a recent meeting of the orchestra, lately organized by some of the young men of this place, Wm. F. Hill was elected leader. The name of the association was changed to the Gettysburg Orchestra.

Married: Bowers-Kline, Dec. 20, by Rev. D. M. Blackwelder, G. W. Bowers, of Butler Twp., to Miss Lizzie A. Kline, of Franklin Twp.

Today's Talk

GOOD FOR PEOPLE

I was talking to a friend some time ago and the name of a mutual acquaintance came to mind. Said my friend: "I like Bill. He is so good for people." I have thought about that statement time and again. What a wonderful reputation to have — to be "good for people!"

That talk with my friend set me to thinking of many others who have been "good" for me. Good to meet often. How many of us have friends who are an inspiration to us, who give us hope and cheer often when we need them most.

I took an hour off recently to call upon a dear old lady whom I have known for some thirty years. I knew her husband, who died many years ago. My friend met me at the door with a most cheerful greeting, and we spent the best part of an hour talking. Rarely have I known anyone who gave so much of herself out to others. She vibrated cheer and good will. Although she lives alone, she is not alone, for her apartment is one of beautiful memories, and there was evidence of the love she has created in others everywhere the eye looked. I left with the glow of her personality alive within me.

What a wonderful thing it is for any of us to be "good for people." People who make us feel that they are good for us mean more than any medicine. They are medicine! They are of the sort that we should endeavor to bind to us for life. Each time we meet such a one our entire day is flooded with light and blessings.

I have now written these daily talks for more than thirty years. I have hoped and prayed that they might be "good for people." That has been uppermost in my mind and heart. Here I would like to thank the many who have written letters of cheer and appreciation to me. Every one of these letters has been good for me and to every reader I wish to say — thank you, and may God bless every home into which these talks go. And a Happy New Year to all!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "See — And Say" Protected, 1953, George Matthews Adams Service

REMARKABLE FEAT
Some remarkable feat I was sure had occurred

The moment I answered the phone.
And this was the cry of delight that I heard:
"The baby is walking alone!"

Back as far as the time when our race first began,
In the very same rapturous tone,
A cave mother shouted this news to her man:
"The baby is walking alone!"

As it was then, is now, so it always will be
The sweetest of thrills that is known
When it's shouted with joy, as 'twas shouted to me:
"The baby is walking alone!"

Local Items: The "Museum" boys with some friends closed out the old year with a supper at John M. Minnigh's, about 76 being present.

A large company of ladies and gentlemen spent New Year's Night at the Springs Hotel, the supper being served by Mr. Gruel.

On Monday afternoon the Chambersburg mail coach broke down in front of The Star and Sentinel office—the axle breaking.

The new year came in cheerfully, the day being bright and clear with a crisp atmosphere. The temperature since has been decidedly wintry. December was throughout milder than any December since 1848. The average mean temperature for all the Decembers since 1821 was about 35 degrees. The mean temperature of the past month was 40.73 degrees.

The coldest December on record in this vicinity was in 1832, its mean temperature being only 25 degrees.

When the first ocean cable was laid between England and France in 1850, it was unsuccessful because the cable broke too easily, but in 1851 a cable strong enough to carry the load was successful.

Over 2,000 At Opening
Between two and three thousand people attended the opening of Boydie's Sandwich Bar, 8 East King St., held on Saturday. The sandwich bar opened at 6 a.m. and closed at 12 o'clock midnight and some of the many people who called at the new establishment could not be accommodated due to the lack of space and the crowd. Twenty-two helpers worked all day to help serve the patrons. Over 2,500 sandwiches were sold. Hamburg and wiener sandwiches were half price and coffee was "on the house," the opening day.

Each patron received a ticket for the awarding of door prizes. The prizes and those who received them follow: A kitchen fan, Mrs. William H. Renner, Prince St.; mikmaster, Michael Cookson, East King St.; pop-up toaster, Mrs. Lewis Reaver, West King St.; bathroom scales, Mrs. Joseph Farrar, Littlestown, R. D., and an umbrella, Mrs. Leonard L. Potter, Maple Ave. Tickets were presented for the purchase of every sandwich and the following prizes and the winner of each included: An electric clock, Howard Myers, Maple Ave.; gloves, Roger Wehler, North Queen St.; two and a half pound box of candy, Mrs. Marguerite Long, Prince St.; knife set, Mrs. O. G. Wilson; two and a half pounds of chocolates, Robert Horner, M. St.; ten gallons of gasoline, Lawrence Reaver; oil change and grease job, Francis Schaeffer; six quarts of syrup, Elmer Harner; basket of fruit, Alton Boyd; cake, Lewis Lippy, near town.

Eight large baskets of flowers were placed throughout the room, as the courtesy of local business concerns. The room, which formerly housed Harris Brothers Department store, is 100 by 17 feet and has just been completely remodeled. The front entrance, the room and all the equipment are entirely modern and 50 patrons can be accommodated at one time. The Sandwich Bar will open at 6 a.m. each week day and will open at 6 o'clock on Sunday evening. Sandwiches of all kinds will be served, as well as soups and other items. J. Arthur Boyd will be assisted by his wife and son, Kenneth "Flappy" Boyd.

The Women's Adult Bible class of Grace Lutheran Church, Two Taverners, will sponsor a roast turkey supper in the church parish hall this Friday evening, beginning at 4 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Ernest Renner, Prince St. received the Appreciation Day award at the program on Saturday night. Mrs. Renner received ten percent of the total jackpot, which amounted to $27.

New Vets' Hospital
Has One Patient
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—No hospital patient ever had it better than 20-year-old Ronald W. Lemanowicz.

He's had some weekend, with four nurses and an entire nine-story, $6,800,000 hospital at his beck and call.

Lemanowicz, wounded in Korea in 1950, was the only patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital here, which opens officially today.

From now on he'll have plenty of service buddies as hospital companions.

The V. A. invited Lemanowicz in a few days early so the hospital staff of 27 could dry run their equipment with one patient on hand.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A demand for ouster of "socialized medicine crusaders" from government came from Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) today with the change of national administrations still two weeks off.

As leaders in the new GOP-controlled Congress made clear they would have no truck with "Fair Deal" proposals for compulsory federal health insurance or related programs, Judd told a reporter

NOTES ON INDOOR GERANIUMS

Until Saintpaulias (African violets) took over first place in the affections of house plant growers, the old-fashioned geranium enjoyed unusual prominence in indoor gardens. Yet, despite decades of experience with this plant, few persons ever gain the full beauty geraniums potentially offer. In more than two-thirds of cases studied the specimens were found tall, lanky, unsightly and without blooms. What are the keys to success with geraniums?

First among causes of "poor luck" with geraniums is the factor of temperatures. Few succeed in temperatures above 72 degrees; few fail in levels between 60 and 72 degrees. Apparently the evils of high temperatures are largely a matter of dry air and not of temperature alone. Emphasis should, therefore, be kept on moist air.

Steam and hot-water furnace heat is most beneficial for geraniums; stove and hot-air furnace heat is usually too dry to permit the plants to thrive.

To avoid plants growing tall and ungainly, with the lower leaves gradually falling off and the stalk becoming more and more rangy, growers should pinch back the longest shoots to stimulate the formation of a low, compact, round plant head. The operation consists of pinching or cutting off the tip of each shoot before it gets excessively tall or long. If this process is practiced when plants are passing through and slightly beyond the half-way stage of growth, they will certainly produce a bounty of blooms as their reward to the grower for proper care.

When geraniums near full growth or blooming size they should be slightly pot-bound. Seldom should they occupy a pot larger than a 5-inch size, even for the largest specimens. So long as the roots have space for extension the top will continue to produce foliage instead of flowers. Retarding root growth by a slight binding discourages further leaf formation and throws the plant's vigor into blossoms. Of course, as already mentioned, a plant allowed to grow tall and stark will not bloom regardless of how it is subsequently treated. Only round, compact specimens produced blossoms.

Geraniums are sun-loving plants. East, south and west windows are recommended in the order named. Surveys indicate that most successes occur in east windows. Perhaps southern exposures find the sun's rays too hot in the middle of the day.

Questionnaires mailed to many growers show that fumes from gas stoves are injurious. The percentage of failures where gas was used for both heating and cooking was unusually high. The rate of success where no gas was used at all was astonishing.

Geraniums need plenty of moisture but should not be watered by the injurious daily sprinkling habit. Water when more moisture is needed. Water in the morning, not in the afternoon or evening. Use water slightly above room temperature, not cold or cool. And do not expose newly watered plants to hot sunshine.

Experience indicates that geraniums "like to be left alone." In other words, give them the attention they need but do not turn, brush, shake or otherwise coddle them. Wash the foliage occasionally with a mist spray to remove dust from the leaves.

Combat aphids, white flies and mealybugs with Black Leaf 40 as a spray in soapy water before the pests become numerous.

Do not place geraniums on or near radiators at any time. There are several improved sorts on the market in addition to the old sorts which Americans have so long grown. Of course, flower growers should learn to make greater use of this ornamental over summer in outdoor borders and beds.

WHY NOT GROW GLOXINIAS?

Despite the fact that African violets (Saintpaulias) have taken over undisputed first place in the present affections of window gardeners, the beautiful gloxinia, according to opinions of many indoor plant growers, remains superior in foliage, flower, and ease of culture. Among the newer improved named sorts are blossoms that measure three to five inches across, with a range of amazing colors from pure white to dark blue through reds, purples and variegated shadings.

It is true that gloxinias are somewhat exacting in their soil, temperature and humidity requirements. But so is the African violet and almost all other indoor plants worth their culture. There seems to be an established ratio between demands for care and the reward in foliage and flower.

Gloxinias may be grown from bulbs, seed, and leaf cuttings. It is advisable for beginners to start with bulbs and then after they learn to adjust environments to suit the plant they may begin to experiment with growth by seed and cuttings. One major advantage in growing this plant from seed is found in the marvelous array of flower colors and forms likely to emerge. Thereafter the more worthy members will come true when propagated by cuttings.

Bulbs permit use over and over for many years simply by resting them for a few weeks to three or four months each year after blooms fade and foliage begins to mature. A cool, dark cellar is an ideal resting place.

The generally preferred time to pot bulbs is in early January on until late March or early April. Always buy the largest bulbs procurable, say successful growers. Pot them one to a 5-inch pot, which the tip barely showing through the soil after a thorough watering to settle the soil. Then the pot should be placed directly in a sunny or light window and water applied sparingly until growth is started.

Perhaps the most important factor in successful handling of gloxinias is the soil. One of the outstanding growers recommends the following described mixture: 1 to 2 parts rich garden or fence row loam, 1 part sand, 2 parts thoroughly rotted leafmold or compost, 1 part pulverized peat moss, and 1 part weathered cattle manure obtained from a summer pasture after it is completely dried. This should be pulverized and all the ingredients well mixed.

Like its compatriot the African violet, gloxinias prefer watering from the bottom. However, to avoid attracting roots too deep in the pot soil, watering from the top part of the time is advisable, done with a long-spouted can that permits distribution of water over the soil without wetting the leaves.

Early to midwinter potted bulbs come into flower before mild spring weather arrives. They may be kept in a sunny window and later moved to a sheltered place on the porch. Despite their appreciation for plenty of light, they should not be subjected to direct sun when the rays are hot. Perhaps morning sunshine is safe but the midday brand may prove detrimental.

Readers who wish to try their hands at growing this plant from may press seed into light, sandy loam under glass in a warm window any time from now until late winter.

The editor invites all questions readers wish to ask on this subject.

The Eisenhower Story 1.

Has Religious Parents

In a life full of dramatic twists, perhaps the most ironic fact about Dwight David Eisenhower was the intense pacifism of his parents. By religious convictions, as members of the Mennonite sect known as Brethren in Christ, both David and Ida Eisenhower were militantly opposed to war.

The ancestors of both Eisenhowers had come originally from Germany and then migrated to Sweden, Holland and finally, around 1730, to America. The Bible was read frequently in the general's boyhood home. Self-reliance and self-denial were stressed. Though they were poor in money, the Eisenhowers were rich in faith.

The third of seven sons (one died in early childhood) Dwight was born in Denison, Tex., where his father worked briefly in the railroad yards. After two years, the family returned to Abilene, Kans., where the general's father had difficulty making ends meet as owner of a merchandise store and later as a mechanic in the creamery.

Delivers Vegetables

Goes Fishing

Works in Creamery

The Eisenhower boys grew up in a small white frame house on the wrong side of the tracks. Like his brothers, Ike sometimes had to wear his mother's high-button shoes to school. Like them, he hunted, fished and swam in a muddy creek but also worked hard at various jobs.

The family raised crops to be sold on the wealthier side of town. Young Ike was frequently seen carrying his corn and cucumbers to housewives.

But like most boys, he managed to get into fights and showed a greater interest in sports than studies. His high school academic record was spotty, but Ike lettered in both football, as an end, and in baseball, as an outfielder. In the hot, dusty prairie town of Abilene, Ike was regarded as a promising athlete.

For a year after graduation from high school, Ike played some semi-pro baseball and worked at odd jobs. He fired furnaces, loaded wagons and worked the night shift as an engineer and fireman at the creamery. He seemed to be drifting. There was little to indicate his future lay beyond Abilene.

LIND, 4 OTHERS
HAVE MOVED OFF
KEYSTONE ALLEY

By J. FRANK TRAGLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—There is no longer a "Pennsylvania Alley" at the Capitol. Five of its Keystone State residents have moved.

The "alley" was a small portion of a third floor corridor of the old House office building where six Pennsylvania representatives occupied neighboring offices.

Today, Rep. Walter of Easton, dean of Pennsylvania Democrats, is the only oldtimer remaining.

Others Defeated
Reps. O'Neill of Scranton, Lind of York and Flood of Wilkes-Barre, Democrats, were defeated in their bids for re-election.

Reps. Fulton of Pittsburgh and King of Bucks County, Republicans, have moved to other quarters.

But Walter will have some home state company. Rep-elect Byrne, Philadelphia Democrat, has been assigned a nearby office.

The old House office building is a block square and has five floors. The new House office building, across the street, is also a block square and has seven floors. Offices—which vary as to size, view and convenience—are assigned on a seniority basis and then it's first-come, first-served. It is unusual, therefore, to have six representatives from the same state occupy neighboring offices.

Senators Stay
Walter, who will begin his 11th term tomorrow, has sufficient seniority to get almost any office he wants. But he has been content to remain at No. 330.

The offices of Pennsylvania's 30 representatives in the new Congress are about evenly divided between the two office buildings.

Sns. Martin and Duff, Pennsylvania Republicans, will continue to occupy their present offices in the Senate office building.

Next time you prepare a casserole of macaroni and cheese, add a little finely grated onion (pulp and juice) for good flavor.

Expects Filibuster
Attack To Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) predicted today that a projected move to revise Senate rules so as to make it easier to halt filibusters "will be beaten by better than a 2 to 1 margin."

The test may come tomorrow or the next day. The Senate, after organizing under Republican control Saturday, recessed until tomorrow.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), new GOP leader, apparently was in position to cut off debate and obtain a quick test at any time he wishes. Taft Saturday persuaded opposing sides to delay until Tuesday the start of their dispute over the issue, the ancient Senate custom of unlimited debate.

In the past, Southern Democrats have used this as a weapon—called the filibuster—to talk civil rights measures to death.

WANTS YANKS
ABROAD FIRED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Half the U. S. government workers abroad, who "never had it so good," should be fired, thinks Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC).

Sen. Johnston said so recently in an interview about his recent study of U. S. overseas establishments, which employ in all 250,000 Americans.

The Senator said he and a special inquiry committee he headed during the seven-week study found: Stenographers drawing $6,000 a year, counting cost-of-living and quarters allowances, and employing their own personal maids.

Government workers living in expensive apartments and hiring three or four servants.

Some officials putting their European girl friends on the U. S. payroll and taking them along with new jobs when they moved to new posts.

Some employees on the payroll for months before doing any work, or staying on for months after their work was completed.

The Senator said investigators didn't find one employee who wanted to come home.

He said he would urge the new Congress to correct conditions.

UPS AND DOWNS OVER

BIRMINGHAM, N. Y. (AP)—James E. Price figures he's traveled vertically about four-fifths of the way around the world in his 17 years as an elevator operator in the three-story postoffice building. "The job was a cinch when I started, only 15 or 20 trips a day," he said. Now with all the offices in the building filled, he says it has become a tiresome job. Now 70, and recently retired, he'd like to go to Florida and fish for awhile.

COMMITTEE TO HEAR LOVETT'S
DEFENSE PLANS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Lovett will appear before the house armed services committee this week to outline views that may start Congress working on a new blueprint for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Lovett said in a report yesterday that the joint chiefs, the country's top military planners, were among the military agencies that should be improved, possibly by law.

Rep. Short (R-Mo), chairman-designate of the house committee, told a reporter today Lovett would appear either Thursday or Friday. The session may be closed to the public.

May Start Probe

Short said the secretary's ideas might start a Congressional investigation of the problem.

The defense secretary said some legislation might be required and also urged a review of the unification act, which integrated the services under the defense department, to make it more flexible.

Lovett has not indicated what suggestions he made in a recent memorandum to President Truman proposing military changes.

But on Capitol Hill the joint chiefs have been criticized mainly because each member, except the chairman, is head of his service as well as its representative on the major planning board.

Separation Of Jobs

Some Congressmen say this means carrying inter-service rivalries into the top military echelon, as well as requiring each service head to occupy two demanding and responsible positions. They advocate separating the two jobs, so that the joint chiefs can devote full-time to overall planning.

FULL STRENGTH

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission was up to full strength of five members today for the first time since October with the appointment of Thomas C. Egan, Philadelphia attorney to the utility rate-fixing agency.

Gov. John S. Fine named Egan to the $14,000 post on Saturday to serve the unexpired term of Chairman Harold A. Scragg, Scranton, which ends in 1955.

Egan joined another new member, Commissioner P. Stephen Stahlnecker, also of Philadelphia, who was shifted last Wednesday to the utility commission from the State Milk Control Commission. Stahlnecker was named for the unexpired term of the late Commissioner B. Frank Morgal, ending in 1957.

Were Former Members

Both Egan and Stahlnecker were members of the old Public Service Commission during the second administration of Gov. Gifford Pinchot. That body was replaced by the present utility commission during the succeeding Earle Administration.

Morgal died in October and Scragg early in December. Scragg's death, until the appoint-

The day after Christmas Mrs. Jean Garrett (above) underwent a Caesarian section in Los Angeles, from which she was not sure she'd recover. And she also feared if she did recover she would live only a few months more at best. On January 2 she's shown, happily opening mail with the hope she's not suffering from a fatal lymphatic ailment after all. A test December 30 turned up negative and additional tests are planned to determine if the original diagnosis, Hodgkin's disease, was wrong. Both she and her baby, Michael Emmanuel, are doing fine.

VINCENT'S FATE
HANDLED TO NEW BOARD TO CHECK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question whether diplomat John Carter Vincent shall continue in the foreign service has been handed to a five-man board especially created to examine his loyalty anew.

The board was set up late Saturday by President Truman, who said he agreed with Secretary of State Acheson that a further examination was called for in the case of Vincent, long a target of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and others, who have accused him of Communist leanings.

"Studied Praise Of Reds

The government's top Loyalty Review Board found reasonable doubt of Vincent's loyalty and recommended that he be fired in an exchanged of memoranda made public by the White House. Acheson said he could not "in good conscience" make a final decision because the board's report was, in his words, confusing and inconclusive.

Among other things, the board cited what it called Vincent's "studied praise" of the Chinese Communists and criticism of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist government in the early 1940s.

Vincent, 53, a key figure in shaping U. S. Far Eastern policy in these years, was suspended by the State Department after the loyalty board findings were announced Dec. 15. He was called home from Tangier, where he was U. S. consular agent.

Vincent, a veteran of 30 years in the diplomatic service, said there was no doubt in his mind about "my absolute and constant loyalty to the United States." Earlier, he had denied any Communist affiliations.

The new board will be the third group to consider Vincent's loyalty.

despair would come to church, the places of worship in this town would not hold them. But when good times return; when the crisis is past, they too often turn from God and go back to their willful ways. This is not real prayer," he continued.

"Prayer Brings Certainty"

Asserting that "there is a place and need for prayer today, not just in the churches but in the heart of our homes," the speaker declared that prayer "should be the very core of our Christian existence." But prayer life "must be a continuing thing, and the radiance and glow we can see in sainted members of our congregations come from frequent walks with God."

As he concluded he emphasized that prayer brings "a certain reasonable and logical approach to our problems and a certainty that we do not face them alone." There was special music by the Trinity Church Senior Choir. The offering went to the American Bible Society as will the one at this evening's service.

tal to the trucking industry, which is the key to all our economy.

"Force Raise in Rates"
"He proposed a ton-mile tax, which is just another case of 'sock the truckers,' and make them pay. But it doesn't make the truckers pay the bill. It just forces them to raise their rates and industry and agriculture pays. It's just another bureaucracy. In New York State, which has this tax, it is costing more to collect it than the amount of the tax."

Mr. Robertson pointed out that the trucking industry is the second largest industry in Pennsylvania and in the United States, surpassed only by agriculture.

"Distribution," he said, in any economy, is the key to that economy. In 1951 the trucking industry moved 75 per cent of all the freight that was moved in that year. In Pennsylvania, 4,006 towns have no railroad connections and ship and receive everything by truck. Thousands of trucks serve the cities which do have railroads.

Pitzer Presides
The program which followed a turkey dinner was opened with the invocation by the Rev. William Jay, retired Benderville pastor. Mr. Pitzer was toastmaster, introducing guests, among them in addition to Mr. Robertson, Howard R. Davis, Williamsport, past grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and J. D. Miller, vice president of the Biglerville National Bank.

Mr. Pitzer said the trucking business was not only second in business but in payrolls. "Trucking firm payrolls in Adams County are larger than most people realize," he said. "In Adams County we are particularly dependent upon trucks. There is not a railroad that runs into an orchard."

Employees of the Pitzer company were introduced by David Pitzer, truck dispatcher of the firm.

THIRTY DIE IN PENNSYLVANIA IN FOUR DAYS

By The Associated Press

Many of Pennsylvania's highways were coated with ice last night as the four day New Year's holiday week ended with the Keystone State counting a total of 30 deaths.

Twenty-two of the victims were killed in highway accidents, seven lost their lives in miscellaneous mishaps and one drowned.

State Highways Department crews struggled to keep the ice-coated roads cindered.

The bad weather, beginning with a New Year's Eve snowstorm, probably helped reduce the number of traffic fatalities by keeping many motorists off the highways.

Alvan Ray Watson, 27-year old resident of Nancy Glo, Pa., was killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding crashed into a bridge wall on Route 350 at Huntingdon, Huntingdon County.

3 Killed On Turnpike
Three men were killed yesterday in a two-car collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, three miles west of the Somerset Interchange.

They were identified as Meyer Zientz, 41, Clinton, Ind.; Marine Lt. John Devereaux, 21, Akron, O., and Robert W. Boyd, 42, Yonkers, N. Y.

Other fatalities reported yesterday:

Waldomyr Kutsky, 62-year old elevator operator, was killed when he plunged 30 feet down an elevator shaft at Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia.

A 40-year-old woman, Mrs. Grace Walter, suffocated in her Pittsburgh home when papers caught fire as she sat reading in front of a gas stove.

A Union City woman, 80-year-old Mrs. Mabel Lee, died of burns suffered when a lighted oil lamp tipped over, setting her clothes on fire.

FERGUSON TO HUNT OUT REDS IN U. N. GROUP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-placed sources said today Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) will command a Senate investigations subcommittee "task force" hunting for Communists in the government and the United Nations.

The sources, declining to be named, said Sen. Williams (R-Dele) may abandon his lone-wolf role as a sleuth for scandals in the internal Revenue Bureau to head another of the group's task forces which will investigate that agency.

There was no immediate comment from Williams.

The informants said announcement that Ferguson will take the post "will signal the official decision to shift the Senate's Communist investigation out of the hands of the internal security subcommittee" on which the Michigan senator was the senior Republican member.

Senators Are Silent

The investigations and internal security subcommittees have been vying for assignment as the Senate's official Red-hunters.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who will head the investigations subcommittee, and Ferguson told a reporter it was too soon to make any announcements.

But it was learned that Ferguson has decided to quit the judiciary committee, parent of the internal security group, and join both the Senate Foreign Relations and Government Operations Committees.

George S. Kaufman Reinstated by CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright George S. Kaufman is returning to the Columbia Broadcasting System television program from which he was dropped because of a remark he made about a Christmas carol.

CBS announced over the weekend that Kaufman will be back on "This Is Show Business" on Jan. 24, when the show goes under new sponsorship and is switched from Sunday nights to Saturday nights.

Kaufman was dropped from the program after CBS reported receiving hundreds of protests concerning his televised off-the-cuff suggestion on the Dec. 21 program: "Let's make this one program on which no one sings 'Silent Night.'"

Announcement that he had been dropped brought as many protests as were registered against his remarks, CBS said.

Kaufman has contended his remark was not intended as anti-religious but as criticism of "the over-use of this Christmas carol in connection with the sale of commercial products."

JAPS SEEK SHIP SALVAGE

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese transportation ministry will send a 60-man salvage team to the Philippines to investigate the possibilities of raising 184 Japanese vessels sunk during World War II. However, most of the ships were thought to be too deep for salvage.

The investigations subcommittee is a branch of the latter.

Under McCarthy, the subcommittee's task force method would assign various members to specific investigations.

A Bit Of History About Your Own Adams County

This is the 42nd in a series of historical talks given over Radio Station WGET by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, Adelphi Sager professor of history at Gettysburg College, on some of the outstanding events and interesting episodes in the development of Adams County.

On December 3, 1863, there was organized in Gettysburg the Adams County Anti-Slavery Society. Although opinion in the county about the 1830s on the question of negro slavery was very much divided, generally speaking, from several practical considerations, the question was not much agitated, at least publicly. True, there began about this time an active promotion of the work of the Underground Railroad by which escaping slaves were helped to freedom, and there were individuals who had very strong anti-slavery opinions, which, both by word and deed, they undertook to express without reservation.

Yet it remains that only in the 1830s was there any important effort to organize and promote anti-slavery activities. Those who led in this movement were those who held most extreme anti-slavery views, and were called Abolitionists. Their view was that human slavery was immoral, contrary to the principles of the Declaration of Independence, which held all men to be free and equal and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and therefore ought to be totally and instantly abolished.

"Men Of Steel"

Discussing the abolitionists of Adams County of the 1830s, J. Howard Wert says: "To be an abolitionist at that time required courage, and small coteries of that belief in Gettysburg and vicinity, in the York Springs district, and in Menallen Twp. were men of steel, in adherence to their principles, and who had the courage of their convictions."

As early as 1834 a few men of intense feeling on this question got together for private meetings for private meetings for discussion and mutual encouragement. Such meetings are known to have been held at York Springs, Bendersville, Gettysburg and other places. For several years this group elected delegates to represent them in the anti-slavery convention then being held annually in Harrisburg.

The first meeting which seems to have received public notice was held at the grist mill of James McAllister on Rock Creek, located about two miles southeast of Gettysburg. The Compiler for July 12, 1836, reported this meeting as follows:

Adopt 14 Resolutions

"On Monday, the 4th day of July, 1836, the 60th anniversary of American independence, a number of freemen of Adams County, Pa. met at McAllister's Mill in Cumberland Twp. to celebrate the day. James McAllister Jr. was called to the chair and William Young and Adam Wert appointed secretaries. Fourteen resolutions were formulated and adopted."

James McAllister Jr. was the proprietor of the mill, being then 51 years old and to become well-known in these parts not only as a vigorous abolitionist but also as the operator of one of the most important stations on the underground railroad at his mill. Adam Wert was the father of J. Howard Wert, who has preserved so much of the lore of Adams County. William Young was one of the leaders among the radical anti-slavery men.

In the 14 resolutions the words of St. Paul, the Declaration of Independence, and assertion of their faith in the protection of God formed the basis for asserting and advocating (1) the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia; (2) election of candidates supporting this purpose; (3) the right of each citizen to examine the Constitution of the United States and advocate changes; (4) the necessity for all freemen to express their opinions freely; (5) the supremacy of God over the Constitution, and (6) their own determination to speak their minds. In harmony with this last expression, they resolved that these proceedings should be published in the county newspapers.

Hold Public Meeting

Growing in boldness this small group decided to call a public meeting to be held at Two Taverns on Saturday, September 17, 1836, to which it invited all freemen opposed to slavery. This meeting was organized by appointing Robert Young, president; Andrew Little and Cornelius Houghteling, vice presidents, and Josiah Benner, secretary.

Adam Wert offered a series of lengthy resolutions which, after some discussion, were adopted without a dissenting vote. There were again 14 resolutions, as at the 4th of July meeting, but while of the same tenor, were not the same. The first two resolutions, exalted free discussion of public questions and condemned efforts to suppress it. The third resolution stated:

"Obey God"

"The holding and selling of human beings is not doing unto others as we wish they should do unto us, and therefore, the institution of slavery is a direct and constant violation of the grand rule of human conduct, which is the essence of the Divine Law, and which has been so clearly expressed by Him who is the Power of God and the wisdom of God."

The fourth is an application of the third, and the fifth stated: "We ought to obey God rather than man. . . . Therefore discarding the fears of men, relying upon Divine Providence . . . henceforth we will employ our moral influence and our political power to relieve the oppressed and to support the cause of human rights."

The sixth and seventh resolutions recall the warnings of Thomas Jefferson and express the view that there is a higher law than the Constitution, while the eighth invokes the Declaration of Independence to show that slavery is irreconcilable with American principles, and the ninth calls for practical recognition of the great deal, "All men are created equal."

The tenth, eleventh and twelfth called for support of a candidate for Congress who will vote for the abolition of slavery and of the slave trade in the District of Columbia. The thirteenth resolution says:

"We have been governed long enough by appeals to our fears. We now indulge the hope that time for this sort of thing has passed away and will never again be appealed to by any of the freemen of Pennsylvania."

Extend Activities

The fourteenth resolution provided for a Committee of correspondence to ascertain and publish opinions of congressional candidates on the question of slavery in the District of Columbia, and to correspond with persons in other parts of the country in regard to meetings to perfect the political organization. The committee which was appointed consisted of Adam Wert, William Young, Samuel Durbin, Peter J. Berrow and James McAllister Jr.

There were many at the meeting who did not approve of the action taken, but they had evidently remained silent as the minutes claim the resolutions were passed without a dissenting vote. It might have been that the standing and vigor of the leaders of the movement was so high and so strong that objection was futile where they had control of the situation. More excitement was to come at the December meeting to which we now turn our attention.

The labors of the committee of correspondence appointed at the Two Taverns meeting bore fruit in interesting other persons in other parts of the county. It should be remembered that the Two Taverns meeting was local in its significance. Now a county anti-slavery meeting was called to meet in Gettysburg. Long heralded in the newspapers, the Gettysburg meeting attracted a great crowd to the old Court House in the center square, where the proceedings began at 1 p.m. on Saturday, December 3, 1836.

Many Opposed More

James McAllister was called to the chair. Col. M. C. Clarkson and Robert Young were elected vice presidents and R. W. Middleton and Ezekiah Houghteling Jr. secretaries. This was according to the arranged program, and went off without difficulty, but that was the end of peace and quiet. The room was packed with a crowd in which there was literally no standing room and not all of those present were there as supporters of the purpose of the meeting. Indeed, there were many present who were there to oppose and to make trouble.

Gettysburg had at that time several young lawyers of violent proslavery views, and these did everything in their power to arouse the fears of the local businessmen by telling them that overt anti-slavery agitation would ultimately be the ruin of their business. Indeed, one of the principal business activities in the county was the manufacture of carriages which were largely sold in the south.

Other business connections with the south, especially Maryland, undoubtedly caused many Adams Countians to suppress or conceal their feelings regarding slavery. In fact, this was generally true of many persons throughout southern Pennsylvania, and particularly in Philadelphia.

Teacher Prohibits Silk Underwear

LARISSA, Greece (AP) — Girl students at the senior high school here have petitioned the Greek government to intervene into what they describe as "unbearable" conditions laid down by their teacher, including his prohibiting them to wear silk underwear.

A mass delegation of the irate females explained to the office of the government representative that their protest was based on their rights to be "treated as human beings."

The teacher allegedly abused

After the meeting had been organized the Rev. William Reynolds, professor of Latin and principal of the preparatory department of Pennsylvania College in Gettysburg, made a motion that an anti-slavery society be formed. He declined to explain on what principles it was to be founded. After considerable discussion it was over-ruled, and a substitute motion was introduced by the Rev. Richard Bond to petition Congress to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia and in the territories.

Against the opposition of the promoters of the meeting, the substitute was adopted. Sensing that their meeting had been taken away from them, the officers vacated their seats amid a derisive uproar and, accompanied by their supporters, retired to Mr. Clarkson's schoolhouse, where they adjourned to meet at 6 p.m. at the Gettysburg Academy. What did it all mean? The explanation will be given in the next article.
